Rabbinic Reflections

As fall gently lands in our mountains and towns, we begin to embrace the cooler mornings and shorter days of one of the most beautiful seasons in the Inland Empire. As Families adjust to a new school calendar and morning commutes are a little longer, we relish the time with one another this Holiday season. Thank you for celebrating with us this Season of Awesomeness as one of my colleagues so aptly titled it. High holidays are a season filled with community time, joy, delicious food and much soul searching. We invite you and your family and friends to join us for some of our very special new programs we are rolling out in 5780!

We have a variety of exciting new opportunities this year that we want you to know about. One of our newest is our monthly Shabbat B'Yachad, Shabbat Together. These shabbats, on the second Friday of the month from 6:30-7:30, are family and kid friendly, shorter and filled with different musical and special guests. We had an incredible drumming shabbat last month and look forward to many more special shabbats together. Join us for these fun interactive shabbats for people of all ages which we will explore, sing, create and celebrate together.

With the new year 5780, we will be exploring a variety of new programs for CEE. We hope to create an environment where you will be welcomed and connect with old and new friends as you build relationships. And if there is an idea you have about a gathering you would find meaningful, let us know so we can help you create and connect with Judaism in a way that meets your and your family's needs. In the works are small group of spiritual women's programming, women's torah commentary study, interfaith family learning, cultural opportunities, special guest lecturers and scholars, enhanced SJL programming, empty nesters program, seniors for seniors and more.

At Emanu El, we want to expand our offerings for some of the youngest people on the block. Do you know someone who has a toddler or baby, or who just had a grandchild in the area? Emanu El is looking for all our grandparents, babies, and toddlers. Our school for Jewish living would like to meet the needs of some of our youngest members this year. We are looking for babies and toddlers and their parents or grandparents who would like to have a little fun together. On Sunday mornings we will be hosting some community wide programs exploring Jewish themes, holidays and music. We need your help in identifying these little ones. Baby classes will be free and open to all, so help us find those babies!

Shanah Tovah U Metukah! May you and yours have a meaningful and sweet new year!

Rabbi Lindy Reznick

Cantorial Comments

A Cantor's Musings- L'dor va Dor – from Generation to Generation –

We are inspired to reflect on many levels during The High Holy Day season, especially with regard to our family narratives. Everywhere we go, we carry part of our history with us. As a Jewish people, this is particularly true and is one of the defining characteristics of our wanderings and growth throughout the centuries. During the Golden Age of Spain, Jews and Arabs lived, worked and thrived together until the expulsion of 1492. The Spanish Jews who migrated to Amsterdam, London, Turkey and other parts of the world, took Sephardic and Oriental music, customs, language and traditions with them. European Jews from Russia, Poland, Germany and Rumania influenced 'Columbus' Medina' [the New World] with their musical traditions, customs and practices – even many of the old country's superstitions came with them!

Every few months, at different times of the year, we add names of loved ones to our Wall of Perpetual Memorial. Most of the names – grandparents, parents, spouses, siblings, children - are from families who have been part of Congregation Emanu El for many generations. Some of the names are known by only a handful of people. And some of the names may be of loved ones who lived in other parts of the country, but are remembered by their descendants who have recently located to the Inland Empire.

Two names to be added this month include a woman who only visited the Redlands congregation a few times, but won the hearts of a good number of congregants when she spoke of her life, Kindertransport from Germany and survival from Nazi Europe. The other name is of her husband, who escaped Lithuania, spent the years 1939-1952 in Israel before they met, fell in love and came to America. I regret that no one here ever knew him – we observed his 30th yahrzeit this year. They were my beloved parents, Marianne and Julian 'Yehuda' Bern. And so it is, that everywhere we go, we carry parts of ourselves and our histories. I am truly grateful that they will now be part of the cherished names on the Congregation Emanu El Wall of Perpetual Memorial; their history will now be woven into the fabric of the many names we honor and lovingly remember.

Prominent Reform Rabbi Arnold Jacob Wolf, z.l once wrote: "Uniquely Jewish is the idea of memory as will. Memory is not seen as something that befalls a passive consciousness. It is something purposefully appropriated in awe and love."

With gratitude and blessings for a Chag Sameach – Happy Holidays,

Cantor Jennifer Bern-Vogel and Family

Presidential Perspectives

Reach out and touch someone.

Who remembers this classic ad campaign? AT&T started using this jingle in 1978 when long distance telephone service was still incredibly expensive. Today's young people might be surprised to hear that talking to someone in another city was once a luxury, but it was. Many of us remember the days when we had to "keep it short" or risk costly phone bills.

"Reach out and touch someone" was such a success for AT&T, the company got so big so fast, that the government actually had to break it up just six years later. The company really touched a nerve in people... we all crave connections. We crave human contact and we instinctively light up when someone else takes an interest in us.

As you read this, we will all be deep in the High Holy Days. I think you'll be impressed by the hard work put in by Dr. Susan Damron and her team. She's creating the most welcoming environment ever seen at Congregation Emanu El. Susan knows the same thing that AT&T's executives knew over forty years ago: people like to be treated like family. And I know that's just what Susan and her volunteers will do. When you walk in that door you'll be greeted by a diverse group ages 6 to 60+, and you'll find someone to talk to even if you've never talked to anyone before.

We're all encouraged during this time of year to look back at the past year and forward to the next year. I hope that the coming year will be one of peace and happiness, if not in the whole world at least in our little corner of it. I hope that you'll think of 1495 Ford Street as your home away from home, a place where you can connect with other people who share your values. Most of all, I hope that we can all embrace each other, understand that it's ok to be different, and yet know that we all share something very beautiful and special: a love for Judaism and a passion for justice.

I look forward to greeting every single one of you during the coming days. But, if you see me but I don't see you... reach out.

Shalom,

Stuart Sweet

Yom Tov!

This High Holiday season spans the end of September and the beginning of October, so please forgive the overlap of event announcements. We have a lot going on, and I would rather repeat myself, than omit anything important!

Rosh Hashana Begins at sundown September 29th and the 7 pm services will be followed by a lovely Dessert Oneg filled with sweet cakes!

Everyone attending HHD services will receive a honey greeting to wish you a sweet new year!

Morning services on Monday will start at 9:30 and will be followed by another sweet oneg to celebrate the new year!

Taschlit will be held at Ford Park. . Duck food will be supplied to cast off as a safe alternative to the traditional (but harmful) bread.

Sisterhood members are making plans to enrich the holidays with our traditional break the fast on Yom Kippur following Neilah . We invite everyone to break the fast with us!. Bagels, lox , cream cheese and comradery will be provided, we ask everyone to bring a dairy side dish to share if you are able.

On the heels of the HHDs we have Sukkot! There will be many delightful Sukkot programs (check your calendars for details). Sisterhood will be hosting Rhythm in the Sukkah on October 15th. There will be drumming and appetizers and quite possibly some dancing! Show up to find out!

On Tuesday October 22nd it is Simcha Torah! This is always a wonderful evening to celebrate Torah! Bring a friend, or just come and make new friends!

From Our Director of Education & Youth

Dear SJL Families,

New beginnings are exciting for everyone. As we prepare for fall with school starting and a new Jewish year, we get excited thinking about possibilities. One of my family's Rosh Hashanah traditions is preparing a festive meal. We put Rosh Hashanah symbols: apples and honey, pomegranate and round challah, out on our table to enjoy. The round challah symbolizes the cycle of the year and its seasons. The pomegranates remind us of Israel and of all the mitzvot we can strive to achieve every day. This tradition of sharing a festive meal together brings us together at that special moment of the beginning of something new.

You might consider creating a new tradition with your family this year, send cards to family and friends, bake a new recipe, or invite another family to join you for our shabbat b'yachad services.

We've created a new family service, a Shabbat B'Yachad, a Shabbat together for all ages. It is the 2nd Friday of every month. We will have different musical guests and creative activities for all to enjoy. Please come and enjoy shabbat with our entire community. Mark it on your calendars because our religious school students will be helping to lead services and we invite you to celebrate with them.

L'Shanah Tova Tikatevu Ve Techatemu,
Happy New Year...

Mental Health Awareness in Action

Here's a new restaurant for the New Year. Here is the sign inside:

Serving personalized set meals

This tiny restaurant has only 5 tables, and everywhere you look – on all the walls, on the floor, on tables, on the ceiling - there are objects, photos, written notes. You might call it clutter. But then you might not understand the nature of this place.

Its owner and creator, Jetro Raphael, says: "I may claim it as the first mood healing sanctuary in the whole world." He designed it in Manila, Philippines to be "a safe haven for the community" and "the most intimate place to dine in." And all that 'clutter' – "every nook and cranny tells a story," and the guests are "encouraged to write their deepest, darkest secrets" on a wall that is never cleared. The messages are just written on top of one other, so there are secrets covering secrets. His diners wear funny hats that aren't sold in any store. Dining at Van Gogh Is Bipolar is about "playing and at the same time healing."

Mr. Raphael himself knows about healing. At one point in his young life, he was about to end it by suicide. But then he felt something inside himself "like a firefly, like a blink of light." He discovered the energy in his firefly to live his life without conforming to society's dictates. He found the little place and began creating it - his way. What evolved was his restaurant.

"Serving people reminds me how joyful it is to be part of life." And what you can see in his face is joy and zest and relaxation. Playing and healing, his way. Around the restaurant are many broken things like a chair with torn fabric. It's deliberate, so that the broken things mirror and honor the broken parts of his customers, the broken parts of us all. "We embrace our weaknesses and celebrate the greatness that we are at the same time."

For our New Year 5780 we might organize a field trip to Manila, or just find a way to be who we are, and find our own way of celebrating, playing and healing, as we honor the spirit of Van Gogh Is Bipolar and Jetro Raphael.

(We discovered him and his restaurant on the BBC.)
