Rabbinic Reflections

Cheshvan, the Month after the high holidays, is called mar Cheshvan in Hebrew. This means bitter Cheshvan, so titled because there are no special Jewish holidays this month. Yet we still gather as a Jewish community. We gather to heal the world, by donating funds for turkeys to feed those who can't afford a thanksgiving meal. We gather to celebrate Shabbat, renewing ourselves and our souls. We gather to learn Torah, to stretch our minds and engage in studies and connect. Jewish community is lived in relationship with others.

I want to be so bold as to recommend we re-name Cheshvan, to Kesher Chesvan, which means the month of connection. In Judaism we study in partners, our Jewish study partners are called chevruta. In Judaism we also must have at least ten Jewish people present to read Torah, recite key prayers for mourning, and to engage in other vital prayers. This concept of minyan reminds us that Judaism is lived in relationship with others. Those relationships are the key to our continuity and creating connection here at Emanu El.

Relationships are what keep people engaged and encourages them to be a part of our community, or even join as members. Judaism is a faith, religion, culture that is lived in relationship with others. On Rosh Hashanah I shared about creating deeper connections here in our community. I challenged each of you to get 8 friends together, create a small group, to do something that will help us build Jewish community. Together you can read books, study Torah, talk about Jewish issues in the news, eat & make Jewish foods, talk about how you bring Judaism to your family. There are so many exciting new ways to express our Judaism. Each of you connects to Judaism in different and unique ways. Our goal is to help you re-engage and do it in a way that you find meaningful, innovative and renewing.

One of our longtime congregants told me that when their kids were small the rabbi put them together in a baby group. From that one simple act these families became linked and their children were raised in community with other Jewish children.

Our goal is to become the inclusive, diverse, welcoming synagogue that reflects the faces of our modern world. We need your help to become that community. In order to be able to achieve that we must practice welcoming. Together we can invite friends to join us and experience our re-invigorated community classes, services, and special offerings.

Know that a smile, a welcoming gesture or brief conversation with a newcomer is the easiest way to start creating community. We hope you will join us in our effort to create a community that truly supports its members, where each individual's presence and story matters. We will build this community together.

Together, b'yachad, we can create small groups of people that gather for like-minded Jewish interests. In these small groups we can deepen our relationships with others, and with our faith, culture and tradition. What small group do you long to create or to join? Let us know so that we can support and help you get started in this month of connection. This month is the time to put into action that one thing you've been longing to see at our temple. Don't forget we are here to help and brainstorm. Together we will start building the new face of Judaism.

High Holy Day re-cap: Music & Torahs

After months of rehearsal and preparation, the Ten Days of Awe – Aseret Yamei T'shuvah - have come and gone. With its once-a-year themes and melodies, music is truly the thread that weaves it together from beginning to end.

We are so grateful to our small but mighty choir, who began rehearsing twice a week in August with our dedicated Choir Director, Jerry Ripley. Thank you to this year's High Holy Day Choir: Michelle Anctil, Grace Harris, Sheri Maltzman, Barb Smith, Lisa Wise-Wolk, Chel Zipperstein and George Petite. We missed Tim Plueger & Kevin Posalski who were unable to participate this year and we hope to have them back soon!

I am particularly proud of this year's Torah Chanters. Almost everyone was part of my summer High Holy Day Cantillation class. Michelle Anctil, Wei Wei Xia, Susan Damron, Leslie Soltz, Nicole Smith and Dr. Ken Abramowitz are among our veteran chanters; we applaud first-time High Holy Day Torah chanters, Shaina Connell and Lisa Wise-Wolk on their equally beautiful chanting!

We are fortunate to have Gideon Feinstein, son of Joel and Lisa Tungka Feinstein, to skillfully chant the Haftarah blessings. We hope that wherever Gideon may go after high school, he'll come back and continue to participate!

And....do you realize that this is the only time of the year when ALL seven Torahs are used? On Kol Nidre they are carried ceremoniously through the sanctuary by our past presidents, their children and families. We generally read from the Harris Torah on Shabbat throughout the year. This year we chanted B'resheet from our Centennial Torah on Rosh Hashanah morning and the Akeda [Binding of Isaac] from the Rich Torah on Day II of Rosh Hashanah. On Yom Kippur morning, we chanted Nitzavim [Deuteronomy chapters 29 and 30] from the Blais Torah and on Yom Kippur afternoon, we read the 'Holiness Code' [Leviticus, chapter 19] from the Phillipson Torah. Our extraordinary and very precious Sephardic Torah resides like a Shabbat queen on high, keeping watch over all our other Torahs.

Celebrating the National holiday of Thanksgiving this month, we as a congregation certainly have much to be thankful for!! Happy Thanksgiving and may we find something to be grateful for every day.

Cantor Jennifer Bern-Vogel

Presidential Perspectives

The pause that refreshes.

Friends, by now you've noticed that I start each article with a famous advertising slogan. You may not remember this one... Coca-Cola used it in the 1920s. Coming as it did at the dawn of the modern advertising era, it's resonated and lingered throughout the years. Students in "advertising 101" learn this slogan as an example of something just perfect for its time. Generations later, John Hughes wrote, "Life moves pretty fast. If you don't stop and look around once in a while, you could miss it." It's the same idea.

Hopefully each and every one of you had an uplifting high holy day season. Now, after months of preparation and a month of services each of us now looks around us at the chores we didn't do, the sleep we didn't get, and the work we didn't complete while we were deep in the world of Judaism. The world hasn't stopped, even though we may have stopped paying attention to it for a moment.

Before we do though, let's all take one more moment and thank the people who have all made the world a little better this past month. The list would take up this entire bulletin in order to list each one individually. Our clergy takes on the superhuman effort, every year, of creating an uplifting and engaging experience. Our staff handles each detail and each request with skill and dedication. And our dozens of volunteers handle every task put before them with a smile. Together, you have all made a difference during the high holy days and it is humbling to be a small part of such an incredible team.

There is so much still left to do. We have a whole year before high holy days, but it will come faster than you think. Our volunteers will be working hard to move our congregation forward. We'll be establishing a new vision for Congregation Emanu El to move us forward into the second quarter of the 21st century. It's hard work but it's rewarding. If you want to be a part of it, please please reach out to me or to any board member. We're always happy to have another hand.

Yes, friends, there's much more to do. But first, pause. You've earned it. Then come back strong and refreshed.

Shalom,

Stuart Sweet

Sisterhood Speaks

Shalom!

I hope that EVERYONE had a lovely New Year, Sukkot and Simcha Torah! It was SO nice to see so many new and familiar faces throughout the many celebrations and services.

A special thank you to Rabbi, Cantor, Jerry and the choir for making services melodic and meaningful, and a BIG thank you to Susan Damron, Judy Filsinger, the temple leadership and the many faces of Sisterhood that welcomed everyone into our space during the HHDs.

We are looking forward to a fairly quiet month in November, a welcome respite from the slew of holidays and programs that happened in October.

I would like to thank everyone that has joined Sisterhood, and invite you to participate in any way that seems meaningful to you. If you have a special skill, or talent that you would be willing to share with us please reach out! If you would like someone to reach out to you, please let us know.

I hope that everyone enjoys a restful and joyous Thanksgiving.

Dear CEE Congregants,

Shabbat Shalom!

Please take time this month to be thankful for all that you have.

I appreciate all of our members and hope that you all have a warm and peaceful Thanksgiving with friends and family.

Congregation Emanu El is partnering with Cornerstone to provide turkey dinners for families in need. Judy Filisinger, our Temple Administrator, has spearheaded this fundraiser for several years. Congregation Emanu El would like to donate 72 turkey dinners to the fundraiser this year. For $25 you can contribute a turkey dinner for a family. Please give as generously as you can – it will make a family in need very grateful and put a big smile on Judy's face!

Thank you to all our congregants who gave so generously to the Yom Kippur pledge. If you have not made a pledge yet, it is not too late! Just send your donation to the office with a note to Judy to let her know what the donation is for!

Please review your monthly financial statements to be sure that they accurately reflect money that you owe to Congregation Emanu El. All donations that are made prior to December 31 may be deductible on your Federal and State income tax returns. If you have any questions regarding any charges on your monthly financial statement, please do not hesitate to contact me or Judy Filsinger.

Sisterhood Board Meeting

December 1, 2019, 10:00 am

All Sisterhood Members are welcome

From Our Director of Education & Youth

Dear SJL Families,

The High Holidays are behind us and we at SJL are excited to get back to school. Together with our Congregation Emanu El family we celebrated Simchat Torah and had a beautiful consecration ceremony for 10 new students, Yashar Koach! It was incredible to see the children dance with the Torah and see an entire Torah unrolled for the first time. We ate and danced, and prayed and sung our hearts out. These consecrants are just beginning their Jewish learning, what a beautiful way to kick off 5780!

For Rosh Hashanah we gathered before services at an intergenerational, L'Dor V'Dor celebration with school children and senior members. One of our board members said that the highlight of her Rosh Hashanah was seeing this room full of children and seniors interacting sharing love and laughter. We are working on our next L'dor V'Dor encounter coming up in December, stay tuned.

This year in SJL we are creating programming that is for the youngest members of our community, toddlers and babies. We will offer a Baby & Toddler time for parents and children up to 3 years. If you have a child above 3 let us know, we are interested in creating a preschool class in SJL. Tot Torah is free for all to participate in and we are looking for babies, toddlers and parents to recruit. We'll have several meetings throughout the year around Jewish holidays. Together we will play, sing, create and connect with each other. Our first meeting will take place on December 15th at 9:30 – 10:00 am. Join us for a story, music and dance fun time for parents/grandparents and babies and toddlers in celebration of Hanukkah.

Help us spread the word, if you know families with babies and toddlers that might be interested please refer them to us at sjl@emanuelsb.org. Grandparents can also help us identify new babies and toddlers, let us know. If you would like to RSVP for Tot Torah experiences please e-mail sjl@emanuelsb.org.

Mental Health Awareness in Action

Rosenberg, Bedlam

At the end of September, Heidi read an op-ed in the Sunday LA Times, and quickly alerted Nancy. She grabbed her paper and read it, too. The piece by psychiatrist Kenneth Paul Rosenberg hit both of us to the quick. Soon we were talking over coffee.

“My family’s American tragedy” (9/29/19) told us nothing we didn’t already know. But how compelling and clear and deeply personal. The author, a Manhattan psychiatrist, looking at the mental health situation in LA, had his own story – how his older sister lived an intolerable life with schizophrenia, and how she died early, and how he, his family, and our entire society share in the blame. And when he went looking for people who needed treatment he went looking in the LA County jail.

Jail? You can tell right off the bat that something is dreadfully wrong in our country when that’s where you can find so many of our citizens with serious mental illness. If you’re reading this, you may have known this already. But why do we feel so powerless to change this cruel reality?

Stigma silences us, as stigma and “shanda” (‘disgrace’ in Yiddish) did when Dr. Rosenberg was growing up and his sister was being tortured by “hallucinations and delusions,” as he describes in his op-ed. But he’s finished with being quiet and treating only those with less serious mental illness in his practice. Now he devotes himself to calling for compassionate and successful ways to help our family members, our neighbors, our fellow Americans. Those ways exist.

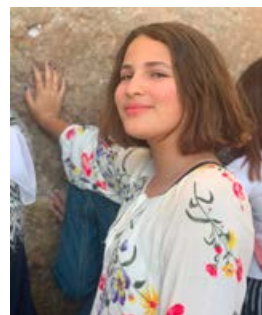

His new book came out during ‘the days between,’ October 1st, shortly before our day of reckoning. It’s called Bedlam: An Intimate Journey into America’s Mental Health Crisis. In a video trailer about the book, there’s a man on the streets of LA, who has no roof over his head, who chokes up as he says: “There ain’t no help anywhere.”

We need to change that. It’s 5780 and it’s time.
