Rabbinic Reflections

Wow, I cannot believe we are entering January 2020. It seems to have come quickly and without warning. I am grateful for this season and to have arrived in this secular new year. I want to share with you about one of my favorite books, Help, Thanks, Wow, by Anne Lamott. In this book, Lamott reminds us of three central kinds of prayers. She writes that there is something to be said about keeping prayer simple: help, thanks, wow. Lamott defines prayer as “communication from the heart to that which surpasses understanding. Prayer is talking to something or anything with which we seek union”. She goes on to write, “if you are telling the truth, you are close to God.” In this new year, I encourage each of you to take some time to pray your prayers of help, thanks, and wow, to the eternal source of everything.

Help is often an easy place to start prayer. It comes regularly from a place of exasperation and desperation. We reach out because we realize that we are not able to solve whatever issue we are desperately trying to fix. Then we turn to someone, something greater than ourselves and say help, please. I encourage you to ask for help from God with anything you’re struggling to figure out, fix, heal or get support from. God help me to support my partner, be present for my children, and help me to follow your lead.

Thanks, writes Lamott, “is the short form of the original prayer I used to say in gratitude for any unexpected grace in my life, thank you thank you thank you.” There is so much to be grateful for, whether it is not being caught speeding, not giving in to that unhealthy habit, or receiving an angelic puppy to share forever love with me. There are always things to stop and thank God for. I thank God for the flowers that appeared on my desk, for the sweet channukah cards which came in the mail, for the friend who reminds me why I live here. Gratitude helps us to appreciate what is, and see the beauty and miracles all around us.

“The third great prayer, Wow, is often offered with a gasp, a sharp intake of breath, when we can’t think of another way to capture the sight of shocking beauty or destruction, of a sudden unbidden insight or an unexpected flash of grace. Wow, means we are not dulled to wonder.”

Our lives are filled with wow moments, waiting to be appreciated. When the sun sets over the San Bernardino mountain tops and pinkish orange descends on the brown hills, I say wow! What are your wow moments today? This secular new year, I want to encourage you to take some time for prayers of help, thanks and wow. See how that can transform your spiritual life in 2020.

Happy New Year,
Rabbi Lindy Reznick

Cantorial Comments

Happy 2020. Wow! We’ve just begun the new Hebrew month of Tevet, and have also entered another decade in our secular calendars. Some of you ‘of a certain age’ will remember the 1968 hit song by the American pop-rock duo of Zager and Evans “In the Year 2525...”! In a way, arriving at 2020 makes me think of that eerily prophetic song ... We have so many gadgets, remotes, robotic-controlled items that can do work for us – do you remember when you had to roll down the car window manually?! No wonder there are so many gyms and work out centers, otherwise, our muscles would completely atrophy!

Where have we come spiritually? In many ways, we have more programming than ever to remind us to ‘be in the moment’ and heighten our general awareness, which, with the multitude of life’s distractions, we so desperately need. Even with the amazing strides we have made in science and medicine, we are still far from uncovering the mysteries of life, the spiritual quest for meaning, fulfillment and peace. Our spirits are often in danger of atrophying as well...And musically? How much of our contemporary music will be around 100 years from now?? In 2019, the 200+ year yahrzeits of Handel and Haydn were observed and this year, Bach and Beethoven’s 270th and 250th respectively will be memorialized, just by the way...

As a relief from the pace of our ever-expanding world, I hope you’ll highlight the date: 2/22/2020 in your calendars for next month’s Cantor’s Cabaret “A Sentimental Journey” – a musical retrospective spanning the last 100 years. Songs of reflection, love, longing, hope, and social commentaries grapple with where society has come from and perhaps, help us slow down a bit, to consider where we may be going...

“Those were the days, my friends...” Yes, we are moving forward, but as Kohelet [Ecclesiastes] wrote in chapter one: Lakol z’man v’eit l’chol cheftetz tachat hashamayim ... there is a time and place for everything under heaven.... Save that date and treat yourself to taking time to look back with us and delight in some of the wonderful popular songs that have brought us to today.

Have a Happy Secular New Year 2020, full of light, love and learning,

Cantor Jennifer Bern-Vogel

Presidential Perspectives

I'd like to teach the world to sing in perfect harmony

Back in 1970, Coca-Cola and its ad agency McCann Erickson introduced the world to what may be the most perfect ad jingle of all time. It was so perfect that not only did it propel Coke ahead in the "cola wars," but it actually became a hit song for two different groups in the years to come. If you remember watching TV back then, I guarantee you're hearing it in your head now, along with its final three words... "it's the real thing."

What an amazing story to tell in just 60 seconds. (yes kids, commercials used to be a whole minute long!)

How lovely it would be to teach the world to sing. At Congregation Emanu El we are blessed to have a cantor who does just that. Working with Jerry Ripley and our all-volunteer choir, Cantor Jennifer Bern-Vogel teaches us music from many traditions and with many points of view. Whether we are joyful, hopeful, soulful, or doleful, there's a song to share, something that's perfect for the moment. And we have Cantor and our entire music program to thank for that.

As for the perfect harmony part... It would be wonderful but I prefer our imperfect, unharmonious congregation full of passionate voices. I like it when people come to me with their opinions. I hope that we always enjoy the gift of people with different opinions who come together to form a rich, strong group who respect each other yet feel totally free to be who they are and believe what they believe.

Coca-Cola may, at the end of their jingle, tell you they're "the real thing," but are they? I'd say not even close. Sugary soda may rule the supermarket shelves but is it really the nourishment you need for your heart? Doctors will tell you it's not even the nourishment you need for your body. Luckily, we have uplifting words from Rabbi Lindy Reznick to help nourish our hearts and souls. In return for a few minutes spent driving to services, we're rewarded. We're rewarded not just with the fleeting satisfaction of a drink – although our ones give you that too – but with the deep feeling of community and well-being that comes from spiritual nourishment.

What a wonderful place our congregation is.

Shalom,

Stuart Sweet

Sisterhood Speaks

Happy New Year and
Decade! 2020 is here!

Sisterhood has had a very busy 2019, and we are planning for a busy 2020 as well.

First and foremost I would like to ask you to join me in congratulating Susan Damron and Kimberly Wolfe-Morgan for creating and presenting our 2019 Sisterhood Shabbat...the WRJ has awarded us with a GOLD Or Ami award for this program! Well deserved! And many thanks to ALL the women (and men) of Sisterhood that helped to prepare and execute this AWARD WINNING program! Keep your eyes out for Sisterhood Shabbat 2020!

In December, we held a very informative, empowering and FUN self-defense workshop led by Karen Levine. A BIG thanks to Karen and her team for giving us tools to take on the world!

We have hosted our annual Hannukah party, that I am hoping that many of you attended and enjoyed. A BIG thanks to Leslie Soltz for organizing the set up and side dishes, and A HUGE thank you to those that came to help me make a LOT of latkes (I am writing this before the actual day so it is difficult to thank specific folks).

We opened our parking lot to the community to host a Holiday Market Faire on December 15th. Besides being VERY cold, we had a great turnout! Thanks to everyone that helped make this event a success!

Please mark your calendars for Casino Night 2020! Saturday January 25th. There will be lots of silent auction items to bid on, raffle baskets to win, and of course games, food and friends! Help spread the word to make Sisterhood's biggest fundraiser of the year a success!

I wish each and every one of you a healthy, happy and fulfilling new year. Please check the bulletin for upcoming events, and feel free to reach out if you have a need to be filled, or have a talent to share.

In Sisterhood,

Karyn Lehmann

President, Sisterhood

Treasurer's Report

Dear CEE Congregants,

Shabbat Shalom!

Happy New Year! May your New Year be filled with blessings and prosperity!

I will be presenting the 6-month financial position of the congregation in the February 2020 bulletin. Our income and expenses are on budget except for one of our line items – Fundraising! If you would like to work on a fundraising event for the Congregation please let me or any other Board Member know! It takes a village to run a fundraising event!

Please review your monthly financial statements to be sure that they accurately reflect money that you owe to Congregation Emanu El. If you have any questions regarding any charges on your monthly financial statement, please do not hesitate to contact me or Judy Filsinger, Temple Administrator.

Be sure to check our weekly electronic mailing and our monthly bulletin to be sure you won't miss any exciting events that will be occurring during the month!

If you have any financial concerns, please do not hesitate to contact me at kathy.rosenfeld@gmail.com or my cell phone is 704-756-7427.

Shalom!

Kathy Rosenfeld

From Our Director of Education & Youth

Dear SJL Families,

As we start a new calendar year, we at SJL are looking forward to more Hebrew and Judaica studies as well as more community building events.

Last month we had our first Toddler Time that was a success with 9 new little ones and we are excited to grow more. If you know any young Jewish families that are looking for community please let them know. Youth group met in the last couple of months for fun activities and we also had another L'Dor VA Dor event, a morning service for seniors and school children.

Jewish values are an important part of our SJL curriculum. Through Jewish values we can learn about different issues in everyday life situations, for example: how to stop bullying, how to help others by giving, and what we can do to for our environment.

One important Jewish value is Tzedakah. The word Tzedakah is usually translated as charity which means love or dearness, whereas Tzedakah is a religious duty. It is not something one does out of the goodness of one's heart, but rather out of one's sense of responsibility toward one's fellow human being. It is the community's responsibility to help out anyone who is unable to meet his or her basic needs.

Now, after the Holiday season, after we received so much, it is a good time to check and see what can we give to the ones in need. It can be an old coat for the winter days, books we no longer read, and we can also donate food to the ones who are hungry. How do you give Tzedakah? Please share with us and tell us how the school can support your efforts.

Have a great secular new year!

Mental Health Awareness in Action

We have had yet another UN climate conference. Yet another season full of unusually dangerous fires. Around the world, Australia was burning out of season and in usually wet places. Sea levels are causing havoc in Venice, Italy, in Louisiana, in Virginia, and especially in the South Pacific. Etc.

And therapists are finding more of their patients are expressing fear of climate change. These climate emotions are called 'climate anxiety,' 'climate depression,' 'climate rage,' 'climate grief.' They can be paralyzing, but they don't have to be. People who look after our mental health have suggestions:

- First and foremost, talk with others who share your worries – acknowledge your deepest feelings
- Be activist – find where you can be useful in making a difference
- Make small changes in your personal life to produce less carbon
- Spend time outside among trees or meadows or by the sea or lakes

Remember anxiety is not necessarily pathological. Climate change is real and concern is reasonable. Transforming denial or anxiety into energizing action is also reasonable.

And a few more suggestions:

- Make time for singing and dancing and idly watching clouds in the sky
- Spend time in an art museum, a concert hall, and sitting under a big tree
- Paint, sculpt, write poetry, play or compose music, create a climate dance
- Get together regularly to worry and create together.
- Imagine a new world.

And mostly:

Plant a tree. Care for it. Plant another tree. Etc.

(MHAIA)

בִּיקוּר חוֹלִים
BIKUR CHOLIM

The Caring Committee

For almost 50 years Roberta and I and our children and grandchildren have felt cared for by Congregation Emanu El. The feeling of being cared for has comforted and supported us at times of joy and times of sorrow and was expressed through words, deeds and random acts of kindness. It continues to strengthen our bond with Emanu El.

At Emanu El each of us is blessed to be part of a caring community led by a Rabbi and Cantor whose hearts and souls express their love and caring for each of us in their every word and deed. Last year a Bikkur Cholim Committee was established to comfort those in our community who are ill and consider meaningful ways to provide support for those in our community suffering from illness and disability and for their loved ones.

In the past month, the Bikkur Cholim Committee changed its name and its charge. We are now the caring committee. We welcome the challenge to find new ways to meet the needs of our Emanu El community through acts of loving kindness. We believe that deeds, words, gestures and expressions, even small ones, nurture a sense of caring and being cared for. We hope to foster attitudes and actions that provide support and meet the unmet needs of our congregants. We hope to be a source of comfort, recognition, understanding and empathy for all in our community.

The sense of being cared for that I described in the opening paragraph of this message was not provided by a committee, it was provided by the Emanu El community—by each of you. To ensure our congregation's growth as a caring community, all of us must contribute. To this end, The Caring Committee needs to hear from you. Do you know of needs that are unmet? Do you have thoughts about how to better care for one another? The Caring Committee would appreciate hearing of your own experiences of being cared for (or not cared for) and, in future bulletins, we hope to recognize those in our community who have demonstrated random acts of kindness. Let me know of them.

Caringly yours,
Phil Gold

The Power of Ritual: A Multi-Faith Discussion

Sunday, January 12, 2020
2:00 to 4:00 pm
Congregation Emanu El Social Hall

What does ritual mean to you?

How can rituals transform our lives?

Sisterhood invites you to join us for our third annual multi-faith discussion program. This time we will explore the power of ritual. Pick a ritual in your religious practice that is important to you. Or perhaps there's a ritual that engages you that comes from another spiritual place. Why does this ritual speak to you? How are we changed by ritual?

We're inviting friends from different religious traditions to join us and share their feelings and thoughts about the role of ritual in their lives. Come and, if you wish, bring a friend from your own or from another tradition. All are welcome.

RSVP by January 10 at sisterhood@emanuelsb.org or (909)307-0400.
