Rabbinic Reflections

As 2020 comes to a close, some of us are celebrating a new beginning, even if it isn't the Jewish new year. As we continue to re-invent Jewish life while our building is closed to keep you all safe during this surge in Corona Virus; we want to remind you we are still here. January holds so many exciting things for Congregation Emanu El. We are continuing to partner with other local synagogues to bring you dynamic joint Shabbat experiences, uplifting educational programming, and community connection and care.

In January we are partnering with Temple Beth el in honor of MLK weekend. We will join together on Friday night January 15th in a joint service with Rabbi Suzanne Singer and learn about her dedication to social justice efforts in our local community. On Saturday, January 16th, together we will watch a screening of Shared Legacies: The African American Jewish Civil Rights Alliance. At the end of the film we will hold a discussion about the critical issues addressed within. Gather your friends on zoom or Facebook and plan to join us for this special Shabbat experience

SHARED LEGACIES: The African-American Jewish Civil Rights Alliance

The crucial historical lessons of Black-Jewish cooperation are revisited and revived in this urgent call to action. The modern alliance between African-Americans and Jewish Americans dates to the NAACP founding in 1909. Since then, both groups have endured segregation and racism, from the codified bigotry of southern Jim Crow laws, to blatant bias in real estate, employment, higher education and politics. Common cause was found in the turbulent '60s Civil Rights era, as Jewish leaders backed Dr. King's efforts at racial equality and harmony. Yet, the relationship has frayed in recent years, as a once mighty bond of support and respect has seemingly faded, been forgotten or ignored. Shared Legacies contends with issues of systemic racism that engulf us in the current national crisis and pursues the aspiration of Dr. King to create a "coalition of conscience."

Also in January we are inviting Rabbi Lisa Edwards, Rabbi Emerita of Beth Chayim Chadashim on Friday January 22nd, 2021 to lead us in prayer. Additionally we will come together and celebrate Shabbat In a joint service with Temple Sinai of Palm Desert and their new Rabbi David Novak, on Friday February 5th. New beginnings mean many new prayer experiences with new friends and old. Please tell your friends and plan to join us online for an exciting beginning to 2021. Together we will pray in a new year filled with hope and promise for a better world.

Rabbi Linda Reznick

Presidential Perspectives

I've got a feeling twenty-one is going to be a good year.

Those words were written in 1968 by Pete Townshend, as part of the rock opera Tommy. The song (which you can hear if you click on this article) is complex and confusing, as most of Tommy is. As it begins, young Tommy's family has been torn apart, an experience which changes him forever. Those words, and the rest of the song, are uttered by the most toxic influence in Tommy's life. They're cynical and manipulative. But, I don't mean them that way. I mean them sincerely. We still have work to do, but I think '21 is going to be not just a good year, but a great one.

As I write this, the very first doses of COVID-19 vaccine are being given to first responders. This is the culmination of an amazing effort from scientists and governments all around the world. The world has never seen such an incredible coordinated response to a health crisis. Indeed, it's never needed one like this before. We enter 2021 still in the throws of political uncertainty, economic uncertainty, and a worldwide pandemic. We may not have even seen the worst of it, but I firmly believe that we are finally on the right path. I hope you do too.

In the meantime I urge you to stay home as much as possible. We are so close to ending this horrible pandemic, and if we are all careful we can get to the finish line together. With the backing of my Executive Committee, I have made the decision to completely close our building until it is safe to reopen. Please do not come in unless there is an emergency need. We can make arrangements to provide scrip, gift shop items, and anything else you need completely contactlessly. I beg you, do not come to the building until it is safe.

We'll all make it through this, and with luck we will join together and celebrate by the late spring. I hope to see you all then.

Stuart Sweet

Celebrating 'This Precious Life' 2021

Excerpts from interpretations of the Psalms* [Alden Solovy]

From Pesach 2020 until now, we have celebrated, mourned, connected, grieved, consoled, laughed and cried together via our new-found and ever-growing technologies on zoom. While the joy of actually singing simultaneously via zoom still begs for not-yet-achieved technological advances, we turn the corner of this secular year filled with both sorrow and hope, and let us least say, Hallelujah! 2020 truly is hindsight – forever!!

My old friend from college days in Beloit, Wisconsin, Alden Solovy, has become one of the most prolific liturgical poets of our time, giving new life to ancient texts that we read and sing. His newest collection, This Precious Life, was written during 2020 and now being published in 2021 in this time of the still-raging Covid pandemic; he reaches out from his Jerusalem office across the continents, knowing that everyone of us has been affected profoundly, in one way or another, either as essential workers on the frontline, grieving loved ones or friends, or simply by the isolation as a result of trying to protect ourselves and one another from contracting the potentially fatal virus.

Alden suggests that “..each of us is being asked – perhaps required – to consider what gives our lives meaning. What we value. Our connections. Our contributions. Our legacy. The past. The future. This very moment. This precious life. The place in which we encounter the Divine.”

Psalms [of which we have 150!] are some of our most ancient texts and originally chanted, were written to serve the needs of the complex human condition. To console, for rejoicing and mourning; for study, healing, fertility and to ensure safe travels, to name just a few.

This month we will celebrate MLK Shabbat [Jan 15] together with Rabbi Suzanne Singer and Congregation Beth El of Riverside combining our music, liturgical and special readings.

Mountain Prayer at Twilight'

*'I just want to do God's will.

God has allowed me to go up to the mountain.

And I've looked over,

And I've seen the Promised Land.”

and also Shabbat Shirah [Jan 22 and 23] when we read B'shalach ' The Song of the Sea

*'...Let us sing a song of salvation
A song of absolution, benevolence, and compassion,
Of deliverance, freedom, and emancipation,
Of power, rescue and release,
Of pardon, restoration, and reprieve,
Of the might and mercy of our Maker,
Of God's generosity and grace...'

Chazak, Chazak, v'nitchazek May we all continue to be strengthened so that we may strengthen one another as we begin the secular new year of 2021 with renewed prayers of hope for health and renewal.

Cantor Jennifer Bern-Vogel

Treasurer's Report

Dear CEE Congregants,
Happy New Year!

May 2021 bring you good health, much joy, and great memories – and may we finally be able to leave our homes safely without having to fear the Covid-19 virus!

We are half way through our fiscal year! Our revenues are down from prior years due to financial difficulties faced by our members. Please give as generously as possible to our Congregation. The Temple Board has been very careful to keep our expenses to minimum while providing you all with quality programs and an excellent religious school education.

In the February issue of the temple bulletin, I will publish our 6-month financial position. If at any time you would like to know the financial status of the congregation, please contact me and I will share that information with you. As a member of our congregation this information is available to you. I can be reached at 704-756-7427 or send me an e-mail address at kathy.rosenfeld@gmail.com.

Shalom!

Temple Board of Directors Meeting

Board of Directors Meeting
Thursday, January 21, 7:00pm, via Zoom
All are welcome

Contact Sisterhood President Karyn

Sisterhood Speaks

The hope I feel rolling into the new year is palpable. I have not “celebrated” the last few New Years Eves, but this one I believe deserves some attention, a ceremonial GOODBYE!

We have all learned a LOT this last year!

We have reinvented how we do just about everything!

Some working remotely, most schooling remotely. Very few of us remained unchanged by 2020, if any.

Sisterhood has been challenged with reinventing our roles. How can we fill the void of what we have historically done in a global pandemic?

I feel we have done “ok”. I think we can do better. I believe that 2021 holds new promise.

In that vein, we are looking for new members, with new ideas. We often have the same women filling the same positions for years, and while some enjoy that as they know the job, and it is fulfilling for them, others need a well deserved break!

We have some key board positions that need to be filled.

The most blatant of which is our Ways and Means (fundraising).

Please reach out to myself, or any other Sisterhood board member if you feel you have some time, energy and new ideas to contribute (or even old ideas in a new light).

We welcome everyone to contribute to the betterment of Sisterhood, and by extension....our community.

B'Shalom,
Happy New Year!!!
In Sisterhood,

Karyn Lehmann

From Our Director of Education & Youth

This new calendar year brings to us hope that there is a light at the end of this long Covid tunnel. Meanwhile, until it will all be over, we at SJL know how important is to teach our children Judaism and Jewish values, so we continue to meet on Zoom every Sunday and learn with music and interactive ways.

This time of the year is the Jewish month of Shevat, on this month we celebrate the holiday of Tu B'Shevat, the new year of the trees, a Jewish Arbor day. The holiday is observed on the 15th (tu) of the Hebrew month of Shevat. It is a late addition to the Hebrew calendar. The holiday is nowhere in the Bible and first appears in the Mishna.

This year, we can celebrate Tu B'Shevat in the outdoors in a safe way. We can go hiking in nature, have some family or alone time, clean a small area in the park or we can stay in the comfort of our home and take care of our own garden or just plant a new plant in a pot.

Let us appreciate nature and most of all be safe.

Wishing all of us a wonderful and healthy 2021.

Mental Health Awareness in Action
Spiritual resilience

Leaving the strangest year we've ever been through, we look ahead to 2021. And now it's especially smart to check in on our spiritual resilience. Our what? you may ask.

According to Nick Arnett, expert on crisis intervention, who led a workshop this summer for Redlands CERT (Community Emergency Response Team) members, the 3 important types of resiliency are physical, emotional/psychological, and spiritual.

When we are in spiritual distress, our response tends to get us caught up in selfish and survivalist thinking. We lose track of the longer term and we find time zipping by or slowing to a molasses crawl. (Sound familiar?) Neither pace is accurate or helpful. Our vision narrows into the proverbial tunnel and lets us ignore the consequences of our actions.

Nick says spiritual recovery helps us restore normal time and allows us to see the wider picture. He urges us to "pause and plan." A little meditation or prayer goes a long way. Or just stepping back for that wider, more careful look.

A Mayo Clinic health newsletter says:

"You can be spiritual by reflecting on your own life and its purpose, and connecting to something larger than yourself, whether through religious worship, art, music or the natural world."

What really matters to you? Pause and consider. Doing just that makes you stronger, more resilient.

So, if your joy and strength in life comes from music, when you're feeling too stressed – play music, sing. Or if it's art – paint, create something beautiful in your garden, in your sewing, in woodworking. Or insist on taking time to meditate, to pray. And go outside for a walk or just to sit under a tree and watch the birds. This is how you grow stronger, more resilient. This is what we all need in order to be present for our lives and to cope with all the stresses, especially this strange COVID-19 life.

CELEBRATE MARTIN LUTHER KING, JR. WEEKEND WITH US!

Congregation Emanu El and Temple Beth El are joining together to celebrate Martin Luther King, Jr. weekend. We will hold a joint service on Friday evening, January 15th, 7:30 PM, during which we will pay tribute to Dr. King's legacy.

Then on Saturday evening, January 16th, beginning at 6 PM, we will hold a Havdallah service followed by a screening of SHARED LEGACIES: The African-American Jewish Civil Rights Alliance. At the end of the film, we will hold a discussion about the critical issues addressed in it.

The crucial historical lessons of Black-Jewish cooperation are revisited and revived in this urgent call to action. The modern alliance between African-Americans and Jewish Americans dates to the NAACP founding in 1909. Since then, both groups have endured segregation and racism, from the codified bigotry of southern Jim Crow laws, to blatant bias in real estate, employment, higher education and politics. OUR BUILDING

As of December 1, 2020, our building on Ford Street is 100% closed to the public. No one will be let in without an appointment. This step has been taken to make sure our community and our staff is protected.

Because of the severity of the pandemic, we will not allow socializing outside the building, even with social distancing and face masks. This applies to everyone.

If you need scrip or something else from the temple, call us at 909-307-0400 between 9am and 3pm Monday through Friday. We can arrange for contactless pickup or we can mail something to you.

SERVICES

We will continue online-only services until it is safe to reopen.

Even after state guidelines allow us to offer in-person services, our task force will take the advice of doctors within our community.

Until then, our Zoom services are open to all. First-time visitors must use their real first and last name in Zoom and turn on their cameras. This is done to keep a safe environment for all. If there are any problems at all, our Facebook feed is open to all. Go to <https://facebook.com/emanuelredlands> to watch services if you can't get into Zoom. No registration is needed.

YOU CAN MAKE A DIFFERENCE!

The month of January is expected to be the worst month of the pandemic.

It's true, a vaccine is right around the corner and it can't come soon enough. But, it will still take several months for everyone to get vaccinated. Until then, it's up to you:

Don't visit your friends at home. The government and the media both agree, in-home gatherings are the #1 way that COVID-19 spreads right now. Use Zoom, call people on the phone, or send an old-fashioned letter. Staying away from each other is the best defense we have right now.

Wear a mask whenever you are outside. The coronavirus can hang in the air much longer than you'd think. Get in the habit of putting on your mask before you walk out of the house and don't take it off until you are back home safely. If 100% of people did this, it would be just as effective as a vaccine.

Stay safe and we'll all be together again soon.
